SEPTEMBER 28, 2025 + 26TH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

This week we have the parable of the rich man and Lazarus. Today I believe it would be good to think about how a person would come to live as the rich man was living. What would bring about the conditions for his sinful indifference? In a broad sense, it can be attributed to one main flaw: that he feels he has "arrived," that he can step out of the flow of life, of becoming, and ensconce himself in a world of his own devising.

The problem is that the rich man has come to feel that these things exist for his benefit alone. Unlike Lazarus, who is covered in sores, the rich man lacks any deficit through which God's love can enter. He has no incentive to grow in virtue. How ironic, then, that in the after-life it is he who must "raise his eyes" to Lazarus as he actuates a verse from the book of Proverbs: "He who shuts his ear to the poor man's cry shall himself plead and not be heard" (21:13).

As with other characters in the parables, he misinterprets material success as a means of freedom, entitlement, and social mobility when, in reality, it has paralyzed the part of himself that will outlive his temporary prosperity; his soul. Jesus calls us not only to see others, but to see others before we see ourselves so we might come to see ourselves more clearly in them, to recognize our own needs before God, who calls us to be as generous with others (with everyone).

God bless,
Fr. Leo
