OCTOBER 12, 2025 + 28TH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

Today Jesus is in the border territory: he is in that land between Galilee and Samaria. Jews and Samaritans lived closely together in a geographical area, yet philosophically, socially, and religiously, the two groups could not be further from each other. However, as is so often the case, disaster, pain, and disease does not respect religious or political borders. The dreaded and feared lepers that Luke presents today are an amalgam of religious and political misfits, drawn together in their misery.

On seeing Jesus, together they plea for healing: 'take pity on us!' In Hebrew 'pity' is not just wanting to send a check to a charity, for Jesus, his 'pity' was not a fleeting emotion or just feeling sorry for the lepers from a position of presumed entitlement. Christian pity came from the very depth of his being. 'Pity' was a deep empathy that reaches beyond our own boundaries. The narcissist can never have true 'pity' despite attending their prayer meetings and sitting in the best place in church—the world will always revolve around them! The gift of 'pity' is something deeply needed in our world today: we must reach out beyond our own problems, problems that are real and do hurt, so that the global community can be transformed. In our own issues, we come to an appreciation of the worries of others. It would be wonderful if people could say of your family, community, school, or parish that 'here is a place of true pity!'

We are here, we are love, love each other as Jesus loves. Pray today as the lepers prayed:

Jesus have pity on me, a sinner.

God Bless,
Fr. Leo
