NOVEMBER 5, 2023 + 31ST SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

Friends,

In the time following All Saints Day, we can reflect on the lives of the saints. Saints live diverse lives that include the range of human experience. Their solutions to life's problems are patterns for us. Saints, and their solutions, are always a good topic of conversation for kids and family. I always liked St. Albert the Great (1200 to 1280) because he was chemist and a theologian. How cool is that?

However, the lives of St. Charles Borromeo (1538 to 1584) and St. Teresa of Avila (1515 to 1582) have also helped me at times. Both Charles and Teresa were working on a new path for the church after the Protestant Reformation. Teresa reformed her order, the Carmelites. Charles set to work in leading institutional reforms during the final session of the Council of Trent and through his work afterwards. Both Charles and Teresa have strong senses of self that enabled them to be selfless. Their faith in God aided them in making their church and communities better. They both seem to have had a sense of appropriateness, of manners, in the situations in which they found themselves. Teresa grew into this awareness later in life. Charles seemed to have had it from childhood.

If you have stories of your favorite saints, November is a good time to share them with families and friends.

Be well and God bless,
Deacon Ed Souza
